Interviewed Again.

In Sunday's Leader there appeared an interview with Mr. Harmon Stitt, of Paris and Millersburg. Below we reprint what he had to say in regard to Bourbon politics:

"Are candidates for Bourbon county offices announcing themselves?"

"A few, though the primary has not been called. Would-be Sheriffs are on the string, and Porter Smith is out for the General Assembly. Mr. Thompson, present Representative, is a candidate for Sheriff on Uncle Nuck Clarke's ticket. They will be hard to be at. Thompson has made a model member of the Legislature and has grown in the estimation of the people. Wil Talbott is on with them, and when it comes to polling a big vote in unexpected places no man can surpass Talbott."

"Who is Porter Smith?"

"Do you mean who is he or WHAT is he?"

"Both."

"I think so, too."

"For County Judge there will be two candidates, Judge Smith, the present incumbent, and Denis Dandon, now County Attorney. They are both good men. Smith is a farmer and not allied with any ring, nor has he sought to enrich himself at his county's expense. Dandon is a lawyer, equally honest, and has faithfully performed his duties as County Attorney."

"By the way, what has become of Jim O'Brien?"

"You ask as if he had strayed, or been appropriated by another. He's right there, though not so much in evidence as formerly. It is in combat that O'Brien's armor shines the brightest. When all of the deposed kings of politics go after King James' scalp he seems happier than at any other time. Peace is nothing but a great, opaque chunk of gloom to Jimmie. He pines and withers under it. His cheek becomes hollow; his eyes lose their luster; his hair dries up and falls out. Sound the bugle for an advance upon him, and you put a mid-day sun in his sky. His cheeks grow round and rosy, like two ripe pippins; his chest comes down street in advance of him, and his hair glens like the wing of a young raven in early spring. Oh! Jimmie is there, but he's buried under an avalanche of oppressive peace."

Brinegor, of Lottie street, surprised their friends yesterday by proceeding to Paris, where they were joined in wedlock's holy bonds by Rev. Clarke, of that city. They took the interurban car over at 8 o'clock in the morning. They were accompanied by a few friends, among them being Misses Ethel Foushee, Florence Brinegor and others. After the ceremony they returned to Lexington and announced the happy news to their friends and relatives. They will make their home in Georgetown."

—Elder Wm. Douglas Darnall, of Dallas, Texas, grandson of J. W. Thomas, Sr., of this city, and Miss Kathleen Allen, of Morgansville, Ky., were married Wednesday, at the bride's home. Elder Darnall has accepted a call to the Christian church, at Eutaw, Ala., where they will make their home.

THE JAPANESE REPLY.

It Amounts to a Denial of Russia's Propositions.

Brig. Gen. H. T. Allen, U. S. A., Has Arrived at Peking and Will Join the Russian Army as an Observer in Event of War.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister here, Thursday called on Secretary Hay and informed him that the Japanese reply to the last Russian note had been delivered Thursday morning. The reply amounts to a denial of all the important Russian propositions and Japan's counter proposals, it is said, are of a nature that almost will certainly make them unacceptable to Russia. Therefore a most pessimistic view of the future is taken at Tokio.

On the other hand, advices that come to the state department from Paris, St. Petersburg and Berlin are all of a pacific character. Ambassador Porter, at Paris, cables that pressure is to be brought to bear on the would-be belligerents, and particularly on Japan by at least two of the great neutral powers to cause Russia and Japan to come to terms and so avert open hostilities. The czar also is reported to be extremely desirous of preventing war. Taking these two conflicting sets of advices into consideration, the official opinion here is that Japan will not yield to any such pressure.

The Japanese minister has supplied the state department an abstract of the last Japanese note. Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, on his part, has acquainted the state department verbally, as is his custom, with the nature of the Russian note, so that the department is fully informed, but as both these communications have been made in confidence the officials do not feel they should make them public in whole or in part. It is stated, however, that there has been no substantial change in the Japanese proposition nor the Russian counter proposal since they were so lucidly set out by the press in its semi-official dispatch from Peking last week.

Brig. Gen. H. T. Allen, U. S. A., chief of the Philippine constabulary, has arrived at Peking from Manila. He formerly was military attaché at St. Petersburg and will join the Russian army as an observer in the event of war.

AGAINST FOREIGNERS.

The Korean Newspapers Trying to Incite the People.

Washington, Jan. 15.—The state department Thursday received a cablegram from United States Minister Allen, at Seoul, Korea, stating that the Korean newspapers are trying to incite the people against foreigners and especially against American interests.

The department feels that the interests can be cared for properly by the United States gunboat Vicksburg and the United States marine guard now in the Korean capital. The European nations also have considerable guards, which undoubtedly could be relied on to assist in repressing disorder that might threaten any special foreign interests.

RIOTING EXPECTED.

The Korean Press Advocates the Slaughter of All Foreigners.

London, Jan. 15.—The Seoul correspondent of the Daily Mail says that the native press is advocating the slaughter of all foreigners. United States Minister Allen has ordered all American women and children to remain in doors and he predicts that rioting by the military is imminent. Mr. Collin De Planches, the French minister, has vainly advised the emperor to take refuge in the French legation.

A Brilliant Wedding.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 15.—One of the most brilliant weddings of the season was celebrated at St. Peter's Episcopal church Thursday when Warren C. Fairbanks, son of Senator and Mrs. Chas. W. Fairbanks, of Indiana, and Miss Helene Ethel Cassidy, daughter of Mrs. Edward T. Cassidy, of Pittsburg, were united in marriage by Rev. Edward H. Ward, D.D., rector of the church.

A Lynching in Mississippi.

Vicksburg, Miss., Jan. 15.—News was received here that "Butch" Riley, the Negro who killed C. C. McMillan near Tallulah Tuesday night, was arrested and placed in jail at Tallulah, but the sheriff was relieved of the Negro by a strong mob and the Negro was lynched.

THE FIRST SESSION.

The Constitutional Convention of Panama Meets.

Panama, Jan. 16.—Members of the junta and several consular representatives were present Friday at the first session of the constitutional convention, which was also attended by a great crowd of people.

Dr. Pablo Arosemena, temporary president of the convention, delivered the opening address, which was repeatedly interrupted by applause. Dr. Arosemena said:

"The republic will live less by its material power than by the virtues it will practice. Independence must be maintained and the republic must adopt without reserve that policy of probity which is born of justice and knowledge."

Representative Burges proposed that the convention should send a patriotic salute to the junta for its distinguished services to the country. This was unanimously approved, thus indicating the cordial relations which exist between the legislative and the executive powers.

The message from the junta to the convention begins by reviewing the history of the independence movement and its causes. The junta formally resigns legislative powers to the convention and lays before it an account of its acts, giving the reasons therefor. It says that the revenues of the republic are insufficient, because the commercial tax has been considerably diminished, owing to the anticipation of the changes which the ratification of the canal treaty would effect in the revenue system, and, also, owing to the inevitable increase in the army and the navy.

The junta formally informs the convention of the ratification of the canal treaty and says it has powerful reasons for such ratification. The message goes on to say that the benefits to be derived from this treaty are incalculable and that a seed has been sowed which will grow into a tree of greatest benefit to posterity and that this treaty will realize the noble and high aspirations of the people.

POSTAL TRIALS.

Perry S. Heath Testified in the Machen, Groff and Lorenz Cases.

Washington, Jan. 16.—In the trial Friday of August W. Machen, the Groff brothers and Dr. Mrs. Lorenz, charged with conspiracy to defraud the government, the defense scored an important point with respect to the character of evidence to be introduced at this time by the government. The defense insisted that the government had not brought forth any documentary evidence showing the existence of a conspiracy to defraud the government and that which was being offered naturally should follow the evidence of conspiracy so as to specifically connect the defendants with the various transactions which had been referred to. The court sustained the point.

At one point in the trial Mr. Douglas, for the defense, called on Justice Pritchard to reprimand First Assistant Postmaster General Wynne for volunteering the statement that a former employee of the post office department recently had been sentenced in Baltimore to a term of two years in the penitentiary. The suggestion was not complied with, but the justice instructed the jury that their minds must not be prejudiced by the statement of Mr. Wynne.

Perry S. Heath, former assistant postmaster general, who was subpoenaed from his home in Salt Lake City, to state what he knew about the administration of his office, was on the stand during the day.

Former First Assistant Postmaster General Johnson also gave testimony as to the practice of his office in the handling of matter originating in the free delivery division.

THE CALAVERAS GROVES.

Petition Asking That a National Park Be Established There.

Washington, Jan. 16.—The president Friday sent to congress a petition sent him by the Calaveras big tree committee of California, asking action by congress to preserve the calaveras groves by the establishment of a national park to include the groves. The president says in his communication that this grove "is not only a Californian, but a national inheritance, and all that can be done by the government to insure its preservation should be done."

Queen Lil's Claim.

Washington, Jan. 16.—The senate committee on Pacific islands and Porto Rico has made a favorable report on Senator Blackburn's bill to pay Liliuokalani, formerly queen of Hawaii, the sum of $200,000 in full satisfaction of all claims to the former crown lands in Hawaii.

AMERICAN INTERESTS.

Assurance That It Will Be Protected in Manchuria.

Russian Troops Are Now Being Concentrated at the Towns of Liao-Yang and Hai-Cheng and at Other Places.

Washington, Jan. 16.—What might have developed into an unfortunate misunderstanding between the governments of the United States and Russia regarding the interest of the United States in Manchuria was adjusted at a conference at the state department Friday between Mr. Hay, secretary of state, and Count Cassini, Russian ambassador. As a result the Russian government will be advised by the ambassador that he has the best assurance that the interest of the United States in Manchuria is absolutely and exclusively commercial and that the consuls sent to Mukden and Antung will confine their activities to the faithful care of American trade interests in that province.

Count Cassini called at the state department Friday to inquire into certain statements in which several European diplomats had brought to his attention and interpreted to indicate a change of policy on the part of the United States government in the direction of political intervention in Manchuria.

The conference between the secretary and the ambassador was characterized by frank cordiality on both sides. It is said that no matter what occurs in the far east the United States will be fully protected in commercial and treaty rights so far as Russia is able to act in the affair.

Peking, Jan. 16.—It is reported from consular sources at New-Chwang that Russian troops are concentrating at the towns of Liao-Yang and Hai-Cheng and other places, where they will be in a position to re-occupy the territory between the Liao river and the great wall and seize the New-Chwang-Shan-Hai-Kwan section of the Chinese railroads.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 16.—The intimation that President Roosevelt is selecting consuls to represent the United States at Mukden and Antung, in Manchuria, the ports opened to commerce by the recently ratified treaty between the United States and China, was received in St. Petersburg merely as a matter of course.

RAILROAD ROBBERIES.

One of the Most Daring and Extensive Unearthed in Ashland, Wis.

Ashland, Wis., Jan. 16.—The police here have unearthed one of the most daring and extensive railroad robberies ever committed in this city. During the past few years the Northwestern road has been robbed of thousands of dollars' worth of coal and merchandise by an organized band of their employees. Almost every car of coal that was received at the mines from here during late years was found to be several hundred pounds short in weight. While no arrests have yet been made sufficient evidence has been procured to apprehend all the guilty parties and the case has been turned over to the railroad's detectives.

THIRTY-FOUR WERE HURT.

Traction Line Car Collided With a Passenger Train.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 16.—An east-bound Michigan line car carrying a heavy load of passengers hurrying home at the close of the day was struck by a Grand Trunk passenger train Friday evening at Gratiot avenue and Dequindre street. More than 34 persons were injured, the heavy double truck car being carried 200 feet down the track from the point of collision and being almost demolished. Every ambulance in the city was hurried to the scene. Seven of the injured were conveyed to hospitals and 27 were taken to their homes. No one was killed, though some of the injured may die.

COUNTERFEIT NOTES.

Manchuria Is Reported to Be Full of Them.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Commercial Agent Richard T. Greener, at Vladivostok, Siberia, has reported to the state department that Manchuria is full of Russian counterfeit notes, which come from Japan and Shanghai and are manufactured skillfully. Strict orders have been given to destroy such notes and to imprison persons who distribute them.

America in the Lead.

Seoul, Jan. 16.—An additional squad of 64 American marines arrived Friday to protect American citizens, who outnumber those of any other nation, except the Japanese and Chinese, and whose active commercial interests also exceed all but those of the Japanese.

Death of Two Pioneer Brewers.

St. Louis, Jan. 16.—After having been friends and partners in business for more than 35 years, William Smith and George Tinker, pioneer brewers of St. Louis, are dead. Mr. Smith died Friday and Mr. Tinker was buried Thursday.

The Live Stock Association.

Portland, Ore., Jan. 16.—The seventh annual convention of the National Live Stock association adjourned Friday to meet in Denver next year. H. J. Hagenharth, of Utah, was elected president.

Miss Gannon, Sec'y Detroit Amateur Art Association, tells young women what to do to avoid pain and suffering caused by female troubles.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I can conscientiously recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to those of my sisters suffering with female weakness and the troubles which so often befall women. I suffered for months with general weakness, and felt so weary that I had hard work to keep up. I had shooting pains, and was utterly miserable. In my distress I was advised to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it was a red letter day to me when I took the first dose, for at that time my restoration began. In six weeks I was a changed woman, perfectly well in every respect. I felt so elated and happy that I want all women who suffer to get well as I did."—MISS GULLA GANNON, 359 Jones St., Detroit, Mich., Secretary Amateur Art Association.

It is clearly shown in this young lady's letter that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will certainly cure the sufferings of women; and when one considers that Miss Gannon's letter is only one of the countless hundreds which we are continually publishing in the newspapers of this country, the great virtue of Mrs. Pinkham's medicine must be admitted by all; and for the absolute cure of all kinds of female ills no substitute can possibly take its place. Women should bear this important fact in mind when they go into a drug store, and be sure not to accept anything that is claimed to be "just as good" as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for no other medicine for female ills has made so many actual cures.

How Another Sufferer Was Cured.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot praise your wonderful remedies enough, for they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. For the last eight years and more I suffered with female troubles, was very weak, could not do my housework, also had nervous prostration. Some days I would remain unconscious for a whole day and night. My neighbors thought I could never recover, but, thanks to your medicine, I now feel like a different woman."

"I feel very grateful to you and will recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all. It has now been four years since I had the last spell of nervous prostration. I only weighed ninety-eight pounds at that time; now I weigh one hundred and twenty-three."

"I consider your Vegetable Compound the finest remedy made. Thanking you many times for the benefit I received from your medicine, I remain, Yours truly, Mrs. J. H. Farmer, 2809 Elliott Ave., St. Louis, Mo."

Remember Mrs. Pinkham's advice is free and all sick women are foolish if they do not ask for it. She speaks from the widest experience, and has helped multitudes of women.

IN MAMMOTH CAVE.

Thrilling Experience of a Party of Eighteen.

Their Boat Sank in Echo River and They Were Saved by the Coolness of a Guide and the Heroism of Another Man.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 18.—Eighteen delegates to the convention of the National League of Commission Merchants were thrown into the icy water of Echo river, which winds a tortuous course through Mammoth cave, and were saved only by the coolness of the guide, John Nelson, and the heroic work of Charles A. Muehlbrunner, of Pittsburg, Pa.

The party included: W. J. Harris, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Well, Cincinnati; L. S. Owens, Chicago; Frank E. Wagner, Chicago; John H. Barnett, Chicago; L. Lipman, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Smith, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Muehlbrunner, Pittsburg; S. P. Craig, Pittsburg; H. C. Rogers, Buffalo; C. S. Stacey, Minneapolis; Ed Tubbsing, St. Paul; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fillebrown, St. Paul; Miss Lucie Patch, Boston.

The roof of the cave over Echo river is arched and the space in the center, owing to an unaccountable rise in the river, was only two and a half feet above the water. In order to ensure the passage of the boat the men and women were forced to stoop over. At one place the boat swerved to one side, raking the heads of the persons in the boat next to the bank. These leaned farther forward to escape striking their heads. This lowered one end of the boat, and the water began to flow in rapidly.

The guide saw the danger and called to Mr. Muehlbrunner to jump and take the chain. This he did, landing on a steep bank, which offered only a slight foothold. Lying down on his face, he held to the chain and pulled the boat towards the bank.

The boat sank in eight feet of water, but further back where there was no landing the water is 18 feet deep. By the light of a single lantern the party escaped by climbing over Mr. Muehlbrunner's prostrate form and after waiting several hours for a boat were brought in safety to daylight.

SCHOOLS IN PORTO RICO.

Annual Report of the Commissioner of Education.

Washington, Jan. 18.—The annual report of the commissioner of education for Porto Rico, Samuel McCune Lindsay, announces a substantial and satisfactory progress in the school affairs of the island. The year closed with 1,665 schools open. The total school enrollment was 70,123, which is 19 percent of the estimated total population of the school population of the island and seven per cent. of the estimated total population of the island for 1903. For the support of all schools the department of education had available from insular appropriations $547,767, of which $345,106 actually was spent. Other expenditures bring the grand total actually spent for education during the fiscal year up to $817,815.

ALMOST CLASHED.

Minister Powell Intervened in An Incident That Threatened to Be Serious.

San Domingo, Wednesday, Jan. 13.—An incident which came near having serious results but for the coolness and prompt intervention of United States Minister Powell took place here on the arrival of the Clyde line steamer New York. President Morales demanded that the shipping agent surrender the ship's letters and when the agent refused to comply his arrest was ordered. In order to avoid being arrested the agent went on board the New York, carrying the letters with him. He then sent for Consul Maxwell, who accompanied him to the palace, where President Morales renewed his demand and compelled the agent to give up several letters.

Minister Powell, learning of the incident, promptly went to the palace and demanded that the letters taken from the agent be delivered to him. This President Morales refused to do, but Minister Powell persisted in his demand, saying that the government had no right to take such action and that the president must hand the letters to him, which President Morales reluctantly did. Minister Powell also told President Morales that the agent was entitled to his protection, as he represented an American company and that he (Minister Powell) could not consent to this arbitrary act on the part of the government, and that furthermore the agent could not be expelled as was threatened. Finally the case was satisfactorily settled.

Minister Powell, finding that the government was unable to protect the tug Anna, which is owned by Americans, while entering San Isidro, requested the commander of the United States gunboat Newport to guard her. The revolutionists threatened to capture the Anna, and this morning a strong guard left the Newport to protect her and other vessels obliged to pass through the waters in that section of the country.

A large force of revolutionists is stationed at San Isidro and Commander Mentz goes there prepared for all emergencies.

San Domingo, Sunday, Jan. 10.—The revolutionary general, Navas, having seized cattle on an estate at La Fe, which is an American property, the agent of the estate applied to United States Minister Powell for protection. The minister was compelled to refuse the request as he has no force at his command sufficient to guard the estate.

The force on the United States gunboat Newport is too small to safeguard estates from pillagers, and in order to protect United States property the minister says there is great need of a larger warship here.

THE CHICAGO THEATERS.

Some of Them May Be Allowed to Reopen This Week.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—Chicago theaters—most of them—may reopen this week. Aldermen, stirred by petitions and the demands of business men and others who are suffering financial losses through the enforced closing, have changed their ideas. Sentiment for action on the proposed ordinance Monday night, instead of a week from Monday night, has developed rapidly.

A fight will be waged on the La Salle and Sam T. Jacks over the question of whether theaters above the sidewalk level shall be permitted, and this struggle, which is sure to be bitter, may cause another delay.

MINERS CONVENE.

The Convention Promises to Be an Interesting One.

After a Session of Ten Days the Workers Will Enter Into a Joint Session With the Operators of the Central Competitive Field.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 18.—What promises to be a most interesting convention of the United Mine Workers of America convened in this city Monday. The thing that makes the outlook for the convention more interesting than ordinarily is the fact that within the last two months there has been apparently a preconcerted move on the part of several of the operators to cut wages at the rate of ten cents a ton. A conflict between operators and miners seems probable.

The convention opened at 10 o'clock Monday morning in Tomlinson hall with about 1,000 delegates from all parts of the country. According to the by-laws of the United Mine Workers there will be one vote for 100 members or less, but no representative or delegate shall have more than five votes. The convention of the miners will remain in session for ten days, and then the miners will enter into joint convention with the operators of the central competitive field. There will be about 300 of these operators present, representing Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. This joint conference is for the purpose of arranging a wage scale for the miners of the central competitive fields. It will probably last about ten days.

The first thing on the program Monday morning was the address of welcome by Mayor Holtzman, to which President John Mitchell responded. The response to the address of welcome will be followed by the report of the committee on credentials and the annual address of President Mitchell. Then will come William B. Wilson, the auditing committee and the tellers, who will announce the result of the vote for executive officers. It is understood, however, that there has been no opposition to the present officers, and it is thought that their re-election is assured.

The address of President Mitchell and the annual reports of Vice President Lewis and Secretary Wilson may not be reached before Tuesday morning. President Mitchell said Monday morning he thought that would be the case.

There are in the United States 450,000 miners, of whom 325,000 belong to the organization. Of these there are now 14,000 on strike. Ten thousand of these are in the west, 3,000 in the Maryland district and 1,000 in West Virginia.

In three states efforts have been made this year to reduce the wages of the miners. The national officers of the mine workers decline to anticipate in any way the probable action of the convention.

THE AMERICAN GUARD.

Reinforcements Sent to the United States Legation at Seoul.

Washington, Jan. 18.—The navy department Sunday received advices from the reinforcement of the American guard at the United States legation at Seoul. Two officers and 64 men were sent there from the U. S. S. Vicksburg, now at Chemulpo. They carried a machine gun with them. There are now a hundred or more men from the Vicksburg at Seoul guarding the legation. The dispatches received at the navy department show the native press to be somewhat inflammatory in its utterances against foreigners.

New York, Jan. 18.—Gen. Rafael Reyes, Colombia's special envoy to the United States, did not sail Saturday on the steamer Alleghany for Cartagena as he said he would. ## THE OHIO MINERS.

They Decided to Make Permanent the One Per Cent. Assessment.

Columbus, O., Jan. 16.—The Ohio miners' convention Friday decided to make permanent the one per cent. assessments on earnings of miners for a relief or defense fund. Fifteen thousand dollars is to be kept available at all times for immediate needs.

The initiation fee for inexperienced men was raised to $20 with a view to the checking of the influx of foreigners to the mines of Ohio.

The convention refused to concur in a resolution presented by the Columbus Trades and Labor Assembly condemning the coal carrying and coal producing combinations of the state. President Haskins advised the miners to keep out of the controversy, as a fight for cheaper coal did not mean less profits for mining companies or railroads, but cheaper wages for miners.

Before adjourning Friday evening the convention adopted the report of the scale committee, but it will not be made public until presented to the national convention at Indianapolis. Action on the scale question was taken in secret session. It is understood the present prices for mining are reaffirmed and the delegates to the national convention instructed to oppose any reduction. The Ohio delegates leave Saturday for Indianapolis.

As a result of overproduction of Ohio coal, operators have reduced the price of coal at the mines from 10 to 25 cents per ton within the last week. The prevailing price for lump coal at the mines now is $1.50 per ton. Some of the large operators who have been selling only to the steam trade say they are now in a position to compete for domestic trade, but deny that any war in prices is being waged against the smaller operators.

ALFRED KNAPP CASE.

He Is Willing to Plead Guilty to Second Degree Murder.

He Was Convicted of a Violation of the Election Laws.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—Alderman John Brennan, of the 18th ward, Friday night was taken to the house of correction to serve a sentence of one year for violation of the election laws. The specific charge against Brennan was that in the last judicial election in the spring of 1903 he purchased votes in the 15th ward in the interests of Judge Elbridge Haney. At the time of Brennan's conviction Herbert E. Kent and Charles A. McCarrie were also convicted of the same offense, but received shorter sentences.

"Do It To-Day."

The time-worn injunction, "Never put off 'til to-morrow what you can do to-day," is now generally presented in this form: "Do it to-day!" That is the terse advice we want to give you about that hacking cough or demolishing cold with which you have been struggling for several days, perhaps weeks. Take some reliable remedy for it TO DAY—and let that remedy be Dr. Boeschree's German Syrup, which has been in use for over thirty-five years. A few doses of it will undoubtedly relieve your cough or cold, and its continued use for a few days will cure you completely. No matter how deep-seated your cough, even if dread consumption has attacked your lungs, German Syrup will surely effect a cure—as it has done before in thousands of apparently hopeless cases of lung trouble. New trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists.—W. T. Brooks.

The Council Meeting.

At the regular meeting of the City Council on Thursday night, the regular routine of business was transacted.

In addition to the same, Councilman O'Brien made a little talk to the Mayor and Councilmen in regard to the action of the Police, in perniciously beating up people. Mr. O'Brien said that there had been so many complaints in regard to the above, that he felt that it was his duty to look into the matter, and asked if there could not be a committee appointed to instruct the police as to their duty. Mr. O'Brien plainly stated that his remarks were not directed at the day force—Mr. Hill and Mr. Bishop.

THE NEWS thoroughly agrees with Mr. O'Brien in this action. There should be some steps taken by the city fathers in this matter. On several occasions it has been called to our notice that our efficient Chief, Mr. Hill, and his deputy, Mr. Bishop, have been repeatedly called up in the middle of the night, to answer calls that were intended for our night force—Mr. Elgin and Mr. Toolin, but as there is no Central Police office in Paris, these gentlemen could not be found.

Not only should our citizens be protected against being knocked in the head at the least provocation, but there should be some stated place where our police on watch, could be found, and if there is a person on the street who is violating the law, he or she, should be put in jail, and not be beaten into insensibility, as there is no excuse for it. The jail is the place for those people.

THE NEWS would suggest that the city fathers rent or buy a place that could be used as a Central Police Station, and some one should be employed to stay at this place all the time, and if no policeman is on duty there, let the person employed at the station know where one could be found. This would enable the day police to get their well-earned rest at night, and also enable the people to know where to find one.

THE NEWS has no complaint to make against Mr. Toolin, as we have never heard anything to his discredit—only that he is badly handicapped by the city not furnishing police headquarters where he could be found in a few minutes notice.

10, 15 and 20c quality Laces will be sold at Harry Simon's all this week at 5c per yard, or 48c per dozen.

CLOVER SEED.—Before buying your Clover Seed see us. The quality can not be surpassed and our prices are right.

Is There No Remedy?

What is most perplexing the mind of the average citizen of Paris at the present time, is not "how old is Ann," but how to put a stop to the wholesale attempts at burglary. The matter has become quite serious, and there is hardly a night passes by, that an attempt is not made to enter some house.

The latest cases reported is the store room of J. W. Davis &amp; Co., which was entered on Friday night and relieved of an overcoat, a hat, a suit of clothes, and other things. The burglars made their entrance to the store by the way of the basement.

The home of J. W. Hughes was again visited by burglars on Friday night, but the burglars failed to gain an entrance. They visited the home of Wm. Sauer, Sunday night. Mr. Sauer hearing the noise, fired at the burglars, and scared them away.

The parties to the contract were Mr. J. M. Richie, who was once famous on the vaudeville stage as "Richie," the trick rider, and Miss Carrie Barringer, a member of the Wills Comedy Company, who played an engagement in this city, at the Opera House, last week.

The Legislature.

The bill appropriating $1,000,000 for new capitol buildings at Frankfort will likely be passed by the House this week. The withdrawal of Lexington as applicant for the location has arrested the prejudice felt by the Frankfort patrons against measures providing for the needs of local institutions. The week promises to be strenuous in both branches of the legislature.

The prospects at Frankfort are that within a week or ten days three of the most important bills will be ready for the Governor's consideration. First of these will be the World's Fair Appropriation Bill, which will be passed by the Senate this week. Then will come the School Book Bill and the State Capital Appropriation Bill. After this the Legislature will take up the Suffrage Constitutional Amendment Bill, the Municipal Tax Bill and charitable institution legislation.

Divorce Granted.

In the Circuit Court, at Lexington, yesterday, a divorce was granted Mrs. Emily Green Varden against Rev. Geo. Varden of this city. The case has been before the court for a year or more and has attracted considerable attention.

The court stated that there had been introduced voluminous testimony which was for the most part irrelevant, incompetent and highly colored, and which gave abundant evidence of bitter feeling. "The defendant," the judge said, "may have been a man surly and ill-tempered, but there is no testimony to show that he was cruel or inhuman, or that he ever laid so much as the weight of a finger upon the plaintiff in a cruel manner."

From the testimony the Court said that he would absolve the defendant from the allegations of being a wine bibber, a profane swearer and a slovenly man.

The order of the Court directs that the two children of the plaintiff and defendant remain under the control of the Court and for the present be placed in the custody of the plaintiff with the provision that the defendant have the right to visit them. This latter matter is to be arranged by the attorneys on either side, or in event these cannot agree, by the court.

Mrs. Varden is apportioned an allowance of $300 a year for the support of herself and children, and the attorney's fee for the plaintiff is reduced from $500 to $350.

The Worst Ever.

There is no denying the fact that Paris can boast of having one of the most capable managers of an Opera House in the state, providing you don't care what you say.

Traveling managers have had more trouble with the present local manager than was ever experienced in Paris before, and as a consequence, they all say that they will never play another engagement with the present management here.

On Friday afternoon, a matinee was advertised and after the Wills' Comedy Company had begun the performance, the brilliant (?) young manager of the house, had the curtain rung down and the performance called off, simply because he did not have money enough in the house to pay expenses. The company, not wanting to disappoint those present, were perfectly willing to give the performance, but the smart young local manager would not permit it.

The company, thoroughly disgusted, cancelled their engagement for the Saturday matinee and night performance and left for Winchester. It is said that almost every company that visits our city, have trouble with young Mr. Wiggins.

The stockholders of the house should use more discretion in leasing the place in the future, as we can never expect to see a first-class show as long as we are represented as we are now. Every manager of a troupe who plays Paris goes away with a grievance against the town and "swears off" ever tackling the place again, and tells his friends in the same business to never take a chance on Paris. Paris and Bourbon County people are accustomed to having the best of everything no matter what it costs, and cannot and should not stand for being made a mark of by a 2x4 manager, supposed to represent the people of this vicinity. It is a disgrace to us all and a reflection on the theatre-going public of the capital of the Bluegrass.

Late News.

At Frankfort, yesterday, Gov. Beckham flew the coop and actually got ugly and announced that he was not in the race for Blackburn's seat in the Senate, and it was all over the Cantrill school book bill. Cantrill won his fight in the house by a vote of 71 to 5, adopting a resolution allowing the Committee on Education to consider and report the Cantrill school book bill at once. This was a test vote and predicts the passage of the Cantrill bill on Wednesday.

The Conquest of Kit Carew.

By Meshine Morpew.

"Father, hear me! It is well with my life you would rob me of sir. I have no desire at all to marry—least of all a maid I have never set eyes on."

"Hold thy rebellious tongue, thou miscreant! To think that a son of mine should defy me thus!"

"Sir," pleaded the young man hotly, "you cannot think what it is you would have me do. The king wants men to fight for him, and you would have me mate with a roundhead's daughter and bide at home by her side!"

"Ay, I have it!" stormed the old cavalier bringing his fist down on the shining oak table with a force that set the heavy glasses ringing. "Too young to wed, but too old to obey. Too young, forsooth, to make such a match as should secure to you father and yourself after me our lands and fortune, howsoever matters go with king or parliament, but old enough to spend your time with dice and wine at the taverns of Oxford. I will have none of it, boy! Thinkest thou I will be defied by mine own son? Promise me now to ride with me to-morrow and ask the girl's hand of her father or I'll lash every drop of blood out of your body."

"I don't care!" he cried, defiant, his hands clinched by his sides. "Flog me all you will, but I won't be beaten into marrying a girl I know not even the name of!"

This was too much for the fiery old cavalier's patience. Spluttering forth allusions to Absalom and other Scriptural scamps, he seized his son by the collar.

An hour later Kit Carew found himself locked up in an attic and seated on the top of an old chest of prodigious strength, which contained some of the family plate and jewels. It was here that old Sir Christopher stored his most valuable possessions, and it is curious in keeping that he should choose this room as a prison for his son, who was to be made so valuable as the link which bound him to what he feared would be the winning party.

He hurried himself against the door once, twice, thrice. The third time the rusty old bolts, that were not half so strong as they looked, gave way, and Master Kit fell sprawling into the passage.

Free!

He got up and walked down to his own room, where he changed his clothes, and, taking the few shillings he possessed, left the house and set out on foot for Oxford.

Two months later Kit Carew was riding from London to Oxford.

He had done fairly well for himself since his flight from home. He had obtained a commission in a regiment of horse, and had fought stoutly on several occasions, and now had been chosen for the task of collecting contributions from the royalists in London to aid the exhausted royal treasury in Oxford.

Carew was tremendously proud of being made king's messenger, and, unfortunately, overwhelmed with the weight of his responsibility. He carried £2,000 in gold.

The night before he left London he had lain on the horse-like four poster in the tavern guest chamber, with his money bags tied about his body like an old miser.

The road between London and Oxford was so guarded by the forces of the parliament that Carew meant to ride by way of Croydon, Dunnington castle, and then north to Oxford through a district held by the king.

He made a long journey the first day and by dusk was within a few miles of Basingstoke.

The August evening was hot and oppressive, sheet lightning played over the landscape, and the faraway growl of thunder was almost incessant.

For a few moments he forgot the treasure he carried, until turning the corner of the lane he came upon a swift moving troop. His heart leaped up to his throat. The orange tawny scarfs gleamed in the dusk—parliament soldiers.

A sudden panic took possession of poor Kit. He answered the officer's challenge by a shot and, wheeling about, galloped blindly away.

The roundheads gave chase, and their untamed horses soon gained upon the animal that had done a day's journey already. A shot was fired. Kit's horse fell struggling.

He shook himself free and dived into the pine and broom woods that bounded one side of the road. But it was a poor piece of cover, small, and in some places open. Kit ran, stumbling in the dark, some distance through the wood and then came out into a meadow. He could hear his pursuers shouting and crashing through the wood behind him, but there was no sign of them where he stood.

Ahead he could just descry a dark mass of buildings, a big house, and a wood beyond. He ran across the meadow, the vivid lightning showing up his dark overbowed and accosted figure against the sickly green of the grass. He heard a shout and horses' feet thudding over the turf. Hot and breathless, weighed down by the weight of the gold he carried, he ran, stumbling in his haste, in and out among the farm buildings and the stacks, until he found himself under the walls of the house.

There was no sign of life on the side on which he stood, but there was a great wisteria growing all over the wall, and framed in the thick foliage he saw a window.

He swung himself up with cat-like agility and clambered over the sill.

Something stirred within and at that instant a vivid flash of lightning illuminated the whole room. Then there was darkness. Kit had seen a small bed chamber, all dark, shining oak and stiff, white hangings, a little white bed, with the curtains partly drawn, a young girl's face peering anxiously forth.

What the girl saw was a young man kneeling in the middle of the room, a white, scared face, surrounded by long, tangled, dark hair.

Kit bent down until the hand that held his sword rested on the floor.

"For God's sake, betray me not!" he said in a whisper, shrill in its intense entreaty. "Hide me. Let me bide myself here. I am pursued by soldiers. I bear dispatches and money for the king, and I must not—I dare not fall into the hands of those men!"

Poor Kit's agonized appeal and his imploring attitude would have touched a heart less sympathetic than that of this Puritan maiden.

"Stay there awhile," she ordered, and discreetly drew the curtains. There was a short interval. Kit knelt motionless, listening to the tramping to and fro of the soldiers in the garden, to movements in the house downstairs, and to a rustling behind the curtains of the bed.

After a moment or two the maiden reappeared, partly dressed and covered in a long gray cloak.

She lighted a candle and drew the curtains over the window. "There is only one hiding place I can think of," she said, softly—"this closet where my dresses hang. See, it runs queerly back in that corner, sir. I trust they will not search this room, but you must be still, for I fear it is my brother's troop that is seeking you. I hear his voice below stairs. Hush! Some one comes!"

She shut the cupboard door upon him and moved away on tiptoe.

Kit had barely recovered his scattered self-possession when footsteps were heard in the passage outside the chamber door.

A man's voice called out: "Are you stirring in there, Charity?"

Then the door was opened, and, as well as Kit could judge, two men entered.

"What are you about, girl?" said one, whom by his voice Kit put down as an old man. "Why are you clad thus, and why is your candle alight? Methinks darkness is best for the head-ache."

"I could not sleep because of the storm, father," said the girl. "I was only just lighted the candle. I—I was about to read awhile to drown my foolish fears."

"Daughter Charity," said the old Puritan, with awful severity, "we are searching for a malignant who hath concealed himself hereabouts. Hast thou seen or heard anything of this man?"

"I heard the soldiers in the garden, father."

"She must have been asleep, sir," said a man's voice. "Unless the men mistook the room. But old Duncombe, who knoweth the house as well as you do, swears he saw the fellow climbing over the sill of my sister's window."

"Ay, ay, he was a beautiful faced young reprobate, and so my lady must needs take compassion on him. That is the story, I fancy," said the old man, and he gave a bitter chuckle that sent a shiver of disgust through the listening Kit.

"But if he is hidden here we will soon have him out. Search the room, Godfrey!"

"While you are wasting your time here the man is escaping, brother!" cried the girl in despair. "Bid him go, father, and I will tell you all!"

"Nay, he shall stay!" declared the old man. "Speak, girl; he is thy brother and hath a right to know of this business."

"Then it was I whom they saw entering at the window?"

An awful silence followed this terrible statement.

"And whom did you go to meet, madam?" thundered forth the old man.

There was no reply.

"Let me get away from here before I do her an injury! Would to God she had never been born!" Kit heard a husky, unsteady voice exclaim, and footsteps moved towards the door.

In that moment Kit realized that there are things more to be feared than death—the life of one who has failed to act as becomes a man, one who has finished ignobly at the moment of trial.

The sound of an opening door made father and son pause. Turning round, they saw Kit standing with his back to the cupboard door, his face white as a sheet, and his eyes shining like two stars. He flung his sword from him, and it lay quivering at their feet.

"Take it!" he cried fiercely. "I yield. She never came in at the window. It was I they saw, and she said it to save me."

Charity uttered a cry of despair and leaned sobbing against the window curtains.

"So this is your lover, madam?" began the old Puritan.

"Indeed, I am not!" protested Kit, his face as scarlet as it had been white; "I never saw the girl—I never was so much as in this country before. And I do most heartily beg her to forgive me!"

He was terribly confused. The younger man, who was called Godfrey, seemed almost more amused than angry.

"Come, sir," he said to his father, "poor little Charity hath committed no great sin in giving shelter to this young spark. Let us leave her in peace and take our prisoner below."

So Kit was marched off downstairs into a great hall filled with parliament soldiers. Here he was rigorously searched. But he had left the money and dispatches in Mistress Charity's cupboard, so that they found nothing upon him but a few crowns and one letter which he had overlooked in his haste. This note was of no importance to either king or parliament, but it was enough to hang its bearer. It proclaimed the fact that Kit had been in the enemy's quarters without a pass, and, therefore, might be proceeded against as a spy.

If he had not proved an able messenger he was a faithful one, and his captors, finding him stubborn, were the less inclined to mercy.

"A contumacious young malignant, if ever I saw one!" said the old man.

"There is no doubt he is on some errand of mischief, a spy most like, and a clumsy one at that. I'll have him hanged, Godfrey. Take him away, men. Lock him up in the cells and set a guard. I'll see him hanged at day-light."

Upon this Kit was pushed away by two troopers and locked up in a little damp cellar.

Now his captors made a strange discovery.

In turning over Kit's letter case the parliament captain noticed some thing written on the leather lining. "Christopher Carew," he read out, and showed it to his father. They looked at each other, and then both burst out laughing.

"Your future son-in-law, sir, I believe!" said the younger man.

"Why, so it is! The boy who wouldn't be beaten into marrying little Charity. What shall we do with him? We cannot hang him."

The captain thought for a minute before answering.

"Do you desire this marriage heartily, sir?"

"Ay, boy, of course I do. When once Charity is wedded to this lad our fortunes are safe, whether king or parliament win the day—if so be that the young man behave himself as a dutiful son-in-law."

"In that case it would be as well to give him some reason to think kindly of us. We must not use force, sir."

Then they brewed a plot that had its effect as follows:

Kit had lain on the cold floor and raged his heart out for an hour or so for self-pity, and in misery at the idea that those who had dispatched him on this fatal journey, knowing nothing of his fate, would perhaps give him credit for having absconded with the money.

Then he thought of the beautiful Puritan girl who had so bravely tried to save him, and at last fell asleep—to awake presently and find Mistress Charity standing by his side.

"Awake, sir," she said, in a low voice, the sweetest he had ever heard, Kit thought. "I have come to set you free. See, here is the gold and the letters. When I heard they found nothing upon you I knew you must have left them in the cupboard. My father knoweth naught of these. But this is a letter from my father. He bade me tell you that he wishes you no harm. He would fain have entreated you more gently, but he feared to be suspected by his men of betraying the interests of the parliament."

Kit's face, indeed his whole bearing, plainly showed his admiration and heartfelt gratitude. Blushing furiously he stammered forth his confused boyish thanks to the composed maiden, who, one year his junior in years, was at least ten years his senior in everything else.

"Come, sir," she said, smiling a little, "I will show you the way out of the house. Only we must take care to arouse none of the soldiers."

A few moments later Kit found himself outside in the garden, his thanks cut short by the barring of the little door by which he had made his exit.

The thunder had passed away. It was dark and raining hard. He groped his way to the high road and then set off as fast as his legs would carry him, bent on putting as much distance as was possible between himself and his late captors before daylight.

A few days later old Sir Christopher Carew was sitting sadly over his wine. He had realized by this time that the son he had alternately petted and bullied was all the world to him.

"I was too hasty," thought the poor old man. "The boy has a good heart. If only I could have had patience enough to reason with him! Or perhaps I ought to have let him see the girl before I ordered him to wed her."

These indulgent cogitations were interrupted by Kit himself, who, shamed and excited, flung himself down on his knees by his father's side and covered his hand with kisses.

"Father, forgive me. I have seen Mistress Charity Warren. She is more beautiful than—I can express. And she is brave and infinitely kind. I will ride with you to Basingstoke to-morrow, or this minute, if it pleases you, sir. If I have your pardon, I have no other desire than to be her servant."

Flattery.

Miss Pechis—I have already said "no" to you, Mr. Vere. I don't seem to be able to make myself plain, although I have tried—

Perey Vere—Ah! you couldn't do that no matter how you try, Miss Pechis.

"Well—er—of course, I shall always be glad to have you call upon me, Mr. Vere."—Philadelphia Press.

COAT AND SKIRT STYLES.

Military Models in Coats Increasing in Favor and Full Skirts Are in Vogue.

The separate waist having fallen somewhat into disfavor, it is a comfort to learn that the separate coat is very much the thing. Which is to say that it is entirely admissible to wear a half or three-quarter coat in dark material, with any sort of a dress skirt, says the New York Post. The loose coat of cloth, velvet, or other handsome, heavy material, provided with very wide sleeves and trimmed with a velvet or lace collar, is seen everywhere. Military coats are increasing in favor and some models are almost exactly like the fatigue jackets worn by American army officers. They have a fitted or half-fitted back, and are straight and loose in the front, extending about 12 inches below the waist. Flat braid borders a coat of this kind, the braid being carried around the top of the collar in a double row down the front and around the hem. All corners are square and the coat is closed with braid clasps. Epaulet pieces trim the shoulders.

Short coats are predicted by the keenest observers of fashion. There is no doubt that the general trend towards 1830 styles would logically bring in the short Eton with full sleeves and loose back, but fashion is not always logical in its processes.

One hears a great deal of the 1830 revival, but it does not really mean much more than that shoulders are made to droop and that skirts are full and flowing again. The fashionable figure does not by any means conform to that of 1830. Reference to fashion plates and to portraits of that period shows that wasp waists were admired and quite a fair size of hips was allowed. Skirts were very full and very short, reaching barely to the ankle. Hoopskirts do not appear, but so many ruffled and starched petticoats belonged to the feminine toilette that the general effect of the skirt was flaring and bell-like.

At the present, although full skirts are in vogue, fashion demands that the figure below the waist be made as slender as possible. The natural spring of the body, to quote an authority, must be concealed, or at least softened, as much as possible. To bring about this happy result corsets have been built with long extensions reaching far down over the hips in long points which are held in place by strips of elastic. Those that lace down the front are favorites, they assisting the concealing process in a manner short of marvelous.

Short skirts do belong to the 1830 period, but they belong to many others beside. Every so often women rebel against the trained skirt, and for a rest and change the short walking skirt comes in. It always goes out, and that within a short time, for flowing draperies are too graceful, becoming and womanly ever to be wholly abandoned. The breathing spell of sensible skirts for street and informal wear is in at present and women are making the most of it.

STALL FOR LADY CONSTANCE.

Texas Ranchman Thought She Was a Horse and Fixed Things Right for Her.

The announcement that Lady Constance Mackenzie would arrive here on a certain date led to an amusing mistake, says an Alice (Tex.) report. The telegram informing R. J. Kleberg, of Santa Gertrudis ranch, of Lady Constance's proposed arrival came from a north Texas ranchman, where she had been visiting. Mr. Kleberg was absent, and the boss of his ranch received the telegram.

The ranch boss is not up on titles of nobility, and he thought that Lady Constance must be a fine blooded mare that Mr. Kleberg was sending to the ranch. He telephoned to J. B. Ragland, the livery stable man at Alice, who attends to such business for the ranch, that "Lady Mackenzie" would arrive on Friday night's train, and that as she was a high-bred animal and very valuable he would be expected to take special care of her until she could be forwarded to the ranch.

Mr. Ragland put a fine stall in the best condition at the stable and notified Mr. Anderson, the railroad agent, to have the car switched at a certain place, as he was anxious to get her out of the car as soon as possible after the arrival of the train.

Meantime Frank Ayers, of the Mosser Cosgrove hotel, received a telegram saying that Lady Constance Mackenzie would arrive on that night's train and that she wanted accommodations at the hotel. A little before train time Mr. Ragland and Mr. Ayers met at the station and both learned that they were there for the purpose of meeting an expected arrival named Lady Constance. There was no horse on the train, and Mr. Ragland admitted that the ranch boss must have made a mistake.

NEBRASKA THE LAND OF PLENTY

I wonder why it is that so many men spend their days working hard on rented farms, barely making enough to get along, with no great prospect ahead of owning their own homes, when within a few hours' journey is a land of plenty—Nebraska—where all kinds of grain and fruit can be raised with the least amount of labor; where cattle and hogs fed on corn bring a handsome profit; where the climate is healthful and churches and schools abound; where land is cheap and can be bought on very easy terms.

Think of this, and if you want information about the country send to me for "The Corn Belt," a beautifully illustrated monthly paper that tells all about Nebraska, and also for "The West Nebraska Grazing Country," an interesting illustrated booklet containing a large sectional map of Nebraska.

On the first and third Tuesdays of each month during the balance of this year cheap excursion tickets will be sold over our road to Nebraska, so that people may go and see for themselves. Ask your ticket agent about this.

ENEMIES ALL RIGHT.

He Was Certain About That and He Took a Shot at Them.

It is related that at a recent sham battle a young lieutenant, posted with his company behind a wall, ordered his men to fire at a detachment of troops who were marching by, says London Tit-Bits. The guns were loaded with blank cartridges, and no harm was done; but the detachment happened to be on the same side of the sham fight as the company which had fired at it.

The commanding officer came riding up. "Why did you fire at those men?" he demanded of the lieutenant, hotly.

"I supposed they were the enemy," said the lieutenant.

"And what led you to suppose they were the enemy?"

"Because my tailor was at the head of them and I saw my butcher in the ranks. What else could I suppose, sir?"

Minister Awarded the Prize.

A good one is told on a well-known minister who was walking along the street the other day and saw a crowd of boys sitting in front of a window with a small dog in the center. When he came up to them he put the following question: "What are you doing with that dog?" One little boy said: "Whoever tells the biggest lie wins it." "Oh," said the minister, "I am surprised at you little boys, for when I was like you I never told a lie." There was a silence for awhile, until one of the boys shouted: "Hand him up the dog!"—Mount Olive (Ky.) Democrat.

Emancipation for the Mule.

Booker T. Washington insists that the negro is not ungrateful and, although the younger generation may like to lose sight of the fact that their grandmothers and grandfathers were slaves, those grandmothers and grandfathers themselves do not forget it. ## WHILE HE WAS WORKING.

The Barber Regaled His Victim with an Illustrative Instance of Ignorance.

The barber tucked a towel under a customer's chin and then cleared his throat, relates the Philadelphia Press.

"A victim—I mean a customer of mine," he began, "told me a story the other day which illustrates to my mind, at least, that some men really don't know the difference between patent medicine and Sarsaparilla water. It was this way:

"This customer of mine had a friend who had a great deal of trouble with his hair. It was all the time falling out. He asked all his friends what he could get to keep it in. Most of them suggested that he get a basket, but finally one of them told him of a patent medicine.

"So the man whose hair was bothering him got a bottle of the medicine and discovered that it was a dark brown sticky stuff that he was to rub on his hair five times a day. He tried it the first day, and it appeared to do good, but the second day some one got there first and emptying the bottle of medicine, filled it up with sarsaparilla. And all day long that poor man rubbed the soft drink on his hair and never noticed the difference. But he did notice, though, that there was an unusually large number of flies swarming about his head. Day run?"

Dr. Williamson Succeeds.

Yorktown, Ark., Jan. 15th.—Last week a statement was published from Leland Williamson, M. D., of this place, to the effect that Dodd's Kidney Pills are the best medicine for all kidney diseases and that he uses them with uniform success in his daily practice.

No one who knows Dr. Williamson will doubt for a moment the complete truth of his fearless declaration, but to completely clinch the matter in the minds of those who may not have the pleasure of a personal acquaintance with this celebrated physician, Dr. Williamson has appeared before Mr. H. E. Greene, J. P. for Montgomery county, and made a sworn statement.

In this sworn statement the doctor has cited a number of cases which have been completely cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. Here is case No. 1:

"Henry Hall, Sr., age 48, an American, attacked with Malaria Haematuria or Swamp Fever, temperature ranged from 101 to 103, highly coated tongue, constipated bowels, hemorrhage or passage of blood from kidneys, used ferruginous and Dodd's Kidney Pills to relieve the inflammation and congested condition of kidneys and to render the urine bland and non-irritating. Recovery complete after two months' treatment of the Pills."

Pain's Master

Every nook and corner of this and other countries has seen emblazoned the words

MRS. COL. GRESHAM Was Given Up BY THE DOCTORS.
Pe-ru-na Saved Her Life.

[It was catarrh of the lungs so common in the winter months.]

MRS. COL. E. J. GRESHAM

Miss Jennie Driscoll, 870 Putnam Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"If people knew how efficient Peruna was in the cure of catarrh, they would not hesitate to try it. I have all the faith in the world in it as it cured me, and I have never known of a case when the person was not cured in a short time."—Jennie Driscoll.

Mrs. Col. E. J. Gresham, Treasurer Daughters of the Confederacy and President Herndon Village Improvement Society, writes the following letter from Herndon, Fairfax Co., Va.:

Herndon, Va.

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio:

Gentlemen—"I cannot speak too highly of the value of Peruna. I believe that I owe my life to its wonderful merits. I suffered with catarrh of the head and lungs in its worst form, until the doctors fairly gave me up, and I despaired of ever getting well again.

"I noticed your advertisement and the splendid testimonials given by the people who had been cured by Peruna, and determined to try a bottle. I felt but little better, but used a second and third bottle and kept on improving slowly.

"It took six bottles to cure me, but they were worth a King's ransom to me. I talk Peruna to all my friends and am a true believer in its worth."—Mrs. Col. E. J. Gresham.

A PLAIN TALK
On a Plain Subject in Plain Language.

The coming winter will cause at least one-half of the women to have catarrh, colds, coughs, pneumonia or consumption. Thousands of women will lose their lives and tens of thousands will acquire some chronic ailment from which they will never recover.

Unless you take the necessary precautions, the chances are that you (who read this) will be one of the unfortunate ones. Little or no risk need be run if Peruna is kept in the house and at the first appearance of any symptom of catarrh taken as directed on the bottle.

Peruna is a safeguard, is a preventative, is a cure for all cases of catarrh, acute and chronic, coughs, colds, consumption, etc.

If you do not receive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Good Spirits.

Good spirits don't all come from Kentucky. Their main source is the liver—and all the fine spirits ever made in the Blue Grass State could not remedy a bad liver or the hundred-and-one ill effects it produces. You can't have good spirits and a bad liver at the same time. Your liver must be in fine condition if you would feel buoyant, happy and hopeful, bright of eye, light of step, vigorous and successful in your pursuits. You can put your liver in fine condition by using Green's August Flower—the greatest of all medicines for the liver and stomach and a certain cure for dyspepsia or indigestion. It has been a favorite household remedy for over thirty-five years. August Flower will make your liver healthy and active and thus insure you a liberal supply of "good spirits." Trial size, 25c; regular bottles, 75c. At all druggists.—W. T. Brooks.

CURES CATARRH.

"Hyomei the Most Wonderful Cure for Catarrh Ever Discovered," Says Clark & Co.

Do not try to cure catarrh by taking drugs into the stomach; it cannot be cured in that manner. The only way in which this too common disease can be cured is through a direct application that will kill the bacilli of catarrh and prevent their growth.

Hyomei is the only known method of treatment that accomplishes this. It is the simplest, most pleasant, and the only absolute cure for catarrh that has ever been discovered.

Thousands of unsolicited testimonials have been received from the most prominent men and women in the country who have been cured by this remarkable remedy. Ministers, bankers, lawyers, even eminent physicians have given strong testimonials as to the remarkable powers of Hyomei to cure catarrh.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00, consisting of an inhaler, dropper and sufficient Hyomei to last several weeks. This will effect a cure in ordinary cases, but for chronic and deep-seated cases of catarrh, longer use may be necessary, and then extra bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50c. It is not alone the best (it might be called the only) method of curing catarrh, but it is also the most economical.

Clark & Co., have so much confidence in the power of Hyomei to cure catarrh, that they will for a limited time, sell this medicine under their personal guarantee to refund the money if the purchasers can say that it did not help them.

FOUNTAIN PEN PERFECTION.

The Quaker City Self-Filling Fountain Pen Fills Itself and Thereby Fills A Long-Felt Want.

(Free Press.)

Any reliable time saver is eagerly welcomed by the modern business man. Probably the most forceful illustration of this condition of things in recent years was the enthusiasm with which the fountain pen was greeted. It seemed to mean the saving of so much time and annoyance for so many people that its sale was simply phenomenal.

But the fountain pen was not by any means perfect and its users soon discovered that the bother was only concentrated, instead of being dispensed with. The finest fountain pen would write indifferently well as long as there was ink in it, but when they gave out our busy man had to stop, unscrew an inky cap, hunt around for a filler and the particular ink recommended by the manufacturers of that particular pen, and so on through a long process of annoyance.

The manufacturers of the Quaker City Self-Filling Fountain Pen have overcome all this bother and produced a practical writing tool which is as easy to use as if one were simply writing with the filler needed for the old pen. There is nothing to unscrew, nothing to squirt, nothing to lose or get out of order. Its construction is simple and substantial and the operation of filling it so simple that you wonder nobody thought of it before.

It is merely necessary to dip the pen pressing it slightly, lift up as usual and go on writing. Its capacity is no less than the bothersome kind.

We feel that we are not over-praising the Quaker City Self-Filling Fountain Pen when we say that it represents the acme of fountain pen achievement.

The only pen that never spills ink, never inks the fingers, needs no filler, can be filled from any ink well, anywhere! Greatest gift of the year, for business men, students, school children—all who use a pen.
